

Neuropsychological study of the abnormal development: review of research papers

U. V. Gushchin

Post-graduate student, Senior Faculty of the Psychology Department at the International University Nature, Society and Human «Dubna»
gusjv@mail.ru

The article is based on a short review of domestic and international research studies over the last years. Research studies were based on studying peculiarities of the psychic aspects of children with different deviation in development and made in the path of the neuropsychological approach. Limitations of the approach and particular characteristics of the reviewed research studies are made.

Key words: neuropsychological approach, disontogenesis, deviations of the development.