

The system-situational approach to clinical psychodiagnostic

M. V. Zotov

Ph.D. in Psychology, Associate professor of the Health Psychology and Psychophysiology Department
at Saint-Petersburg State University
zotov@psy.pu.ru

O. Iu. Shchelkova

Ph.D. in Psychology, Professor, Head of
the Health Psychology and Psychophysiology Department
at Saint-Petersburg State University

In the present article theoretical principles of the system-situational approach to prediction of behavioral disorders are considered. Realization of the system-situational approach on an example of development of psychological methods of diagnostics of suicidal behavior is described.

Key words: psychological diagnostics, behavioral disorders, stress, cognitive control.