

The dynamics of self-respect older people, living in a boarding house in connection with the narrative of his life by young people

M. A. Loguntsova

Master of Psychology Department at the International University of Nature, Society and Human «Dubna» Muse12@yandex.ru

U. I. Frolov

Ph.D. in Psychology, Associate professor of Department of Age-related Psychology and Developmental Psychology at the Moscow State University by M.V. Lomonosov, Associate professor of the psychology department at the International University of nature, society and human «Dubna»

This article is about the problem between generations of youths and older people and problem of self-acceptance of people of senile age. Research object is pensioners, which are inhabitants of the house for aged in the city of Dubna. Research was conducted together with five volunteers, who communicated with older people on steams and spent joint discussion telling about life of the older people. This work bears the additional contribution to researches of psychology of age of a late maturity and practical work with the older people.

Key words: gerontopsychology, older people, self-estimation, self-acceptance.