

Interactive methods of teaching in graduate school

U. V. Gushchin

Ph.D. in Psychology, Associate professor of the Psychology Department at the International University of Nature, Society and Man «Dubna»

gusjv@mail.ru

The article is presenting the view on interactive methods of teaching and educational techniques. Capabilities and practical meaning of studying those methods in graduate school education system are reviewed. The central place in the article is given to analysis of case-technologies in educational process.

Key words: interactive methods of teaching, case-technologies, method of projects, portfolio, discussion, training, game